Projects searched – are you interested in participating in other EU projects as a partner?

oarther:
Yes / no	We are ready to study all opportunities.
Which kind of projects are you looking for?	The theme of war is highly relevant because all countries in the modern world are interconnected. If there is a war or even a threat of war somewhere in the world, it often affects all the inhabitants of the planet, and they feel this impact in their daily lives. Therefore, people need to learn to view war as a circumstance that cannot be completely eliminated from their lives. To achieve this, we need to examine this aspect of human existence, explore its history, study human behavior during war in various circumstances, and form our own attitude towards it.
	We propose drawing attention to this issue through a direction such as Trench Art. This involves creating works of art from military remnants produced by the military or ordinary citizens during various wars from the past to the present. Showcasing both old artifacts and the new development of this trend, which appeals to the traditional artistic forms of European art.
	We would like to collect various works of Trench Art and organize an exhibition that will travel and be showcased in different European countries.
	Through the revival of Trench Art, we aim to demonstrate that the issue of war in the modern world is still relevant.
